

Links Homework
Assignment 2
CS403 section 2
Due: Sept 20, 2011

This assignment is an exercise in working with links. Some links will be local, links from one page you create to another, and others will be external, linking from a page you create to a page on a web site on an external machine somewhere on the Internet.

For this assignment you will create a simple web site. A web site is just a series of web pages that are linked together. You will link four pages together. The four pages and their file names appear on the last pages of this assignment.

The first page, named “quotes.html”, contains three links. Each link is to a different day – “2-1-12.html”, “2-2-12.html” and “2-03-12.html”. Since all four of these files will be stored in the same folder, the links can be relative links.

Each day file contains a quote, a link to the information about the author(s) and a link to either the next page or to the file “quotes.html” if the page represents the last day.

Again, since all the files are stored in the same folder, links to them can be relative. Links to information about the authors(s) is going to be to a page on another web server and thus must be external.

The link to the information about the “Talmud” is:

<http://www.bbc.co.uk/religion/religions/judaism/texts/talmud.shtml>

The link to information about Ambrose Bierce is: <http://www.biercephile.com/>

The link to information about H. L. Menken is: <http://www.mencken.org/>

Also, near the top of each page, add the following comment, replacing my name with yours.

```
<!-- Author: Jim Weiner -->
```

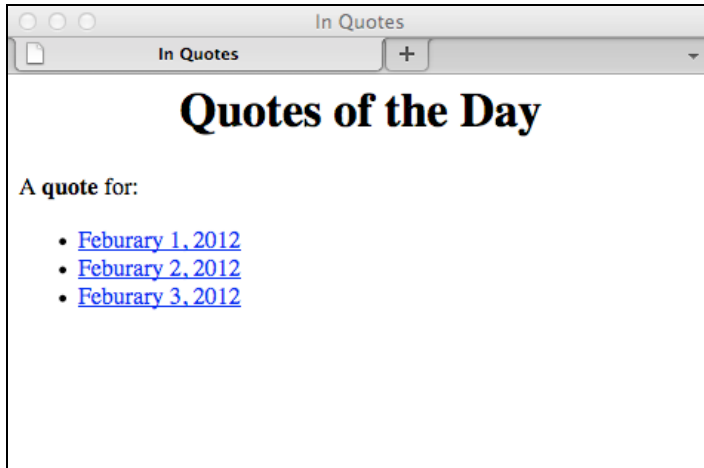

I always put it right after the <head>, but it doesn't have to be there.

In addition to the author, each web page should have a comment indicating the name of the file it is contained in. So the file “2-1-12.html” should contain the following comment:

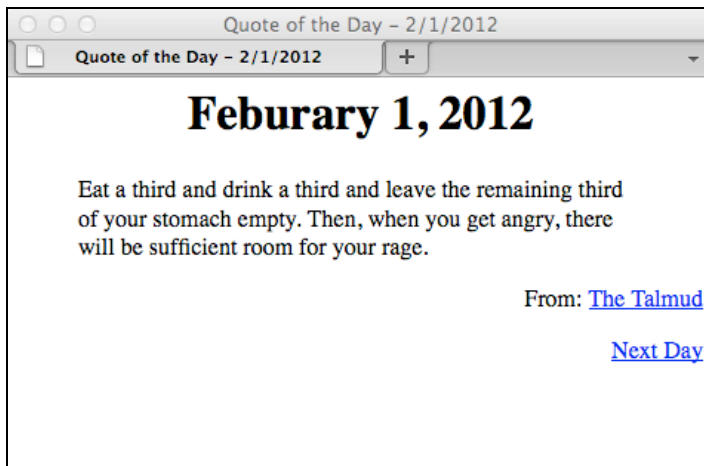

```
<!--File: 2-1-12.html -->
```

Once you are done, print out each source HTML file and hand that in. It must be a legal HTML page, so watch your start and end tags. You don't need to print the page from the browser, just the HTML source file from Notepad.

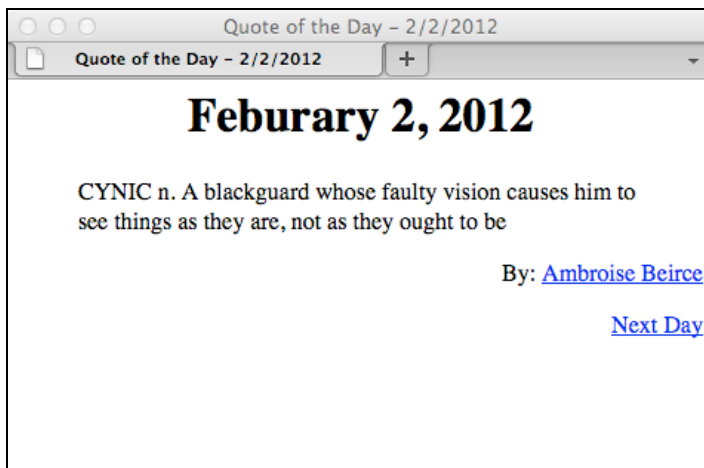

quotes.html

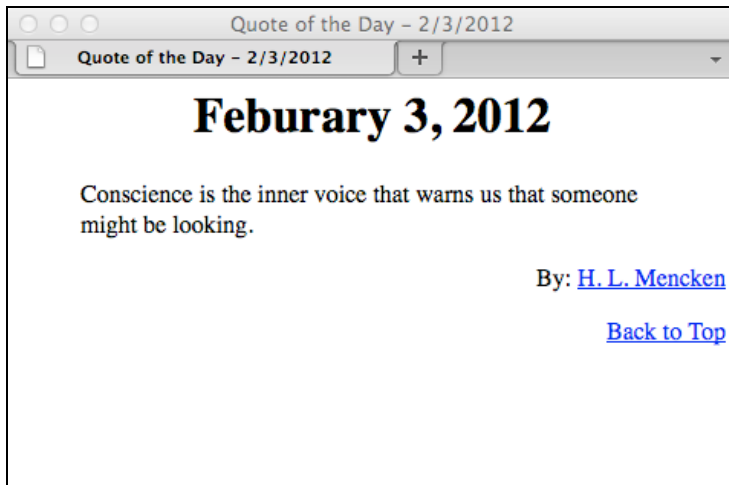

2-1-12.html

2-2-12.html

2-3-12.html

Quote of the Day - 2/3/2012

Quote of the Day - 2/3/2012

Feburary 3, 2012

Conscience is the inner voice that warns us that someone might be looking.

By: H. L. Mencken

Back to Top