8. VERBAL AGGRESSION

The primary use of the CTS to date has been in studies of physical violence. That fact caused me to overlook the fact that some studies have used the Verbal Aggression scale. The next edition of the bibliography will transfer to this section references to work in which verbal aggression was the primary focus, and will also include cross-references to studies in Part I that used the Verbal Aggression scale for a secondary part of the publication. So far I have done this mainly for my own papers because I could pick them out without having to read through the articles.
